The Impact Enterprise Advisers are having in D2N2

Rhonda Smith Careers Advisor East Leake Academy

lan Greenway D2N2 Employability Champion "East Leake Academy is just about to start down the road of achieving a careers quality award. She has already attended Career Mark training with me. Having managed the achievement of Investors in People for her former, large organisation, I feel she will provide priceless insight into how to handle the process, including motivating all stakeholders to take an active part in meeting the required standards and providing the excellent careers and employability provision our students deserve."

"It's important for schools to sign up to the EAN because the new head of Ofsted is saying we should have a broader set of measures for schools and employability skills are going up the agenda." "I decided to join the network to bridge that gap between employers and schools.

My main aim is to produce a process with my school that will enable students to gain effective work experience/understanding. I am also going to work with the School to help make the curriculum more functional in the workplace."

Mandy Steel Enterprise Adviser HR Consultant "The Careers Leader, Rhonda, is an established and experienced professional and provides a wide range of career opportunities and experiences for the students. Our styles complement each other and hopefully the difference I bring to the table is to give an outside view of the world of work and to offer challenge and support to the various experiences on offer to the young people. What could be more fulfilling than supporting the next generation into their chosen careers?"

Martin Care Enterprise Adviser Bombardier "I'm working with Derby Moor Sports Academy and so far the engagement has been absolutely superb, I couldn't have asked for any more. The senior leadership team has been really engaged and the work with the staff has been very strong."

"We've got a good view of some of the strategic things to do, some of the activities that we're going to create with the school team during the next academic year. Its early days but the engagement has been really positive so far."

"Seeing those light bulbs come on, seeing those moments as we go through the process with the students is great but also seeing the teachers too, seeing them get involved and make a real difference by just tweaking things that they do already by making it relevant to employers and students."

Richard Fuller Enterprise Adviser County Battery "We've worked together and we've looked at what we can do to build greater relationships between schools and businesses."

"It's a good opportunity to give a bit back"
