

Environmental Protection Act 1990; Part IIA. Contaminated Land Register

The Council has a duty to maintain a register (under section 78R(1)) which includes details of remediation notices which have been served and other documents in relation to each area of contaminated land for which the authority is responsible. The register will also include information about the condition of the land in question. For a local authority, the register must be kept at its principal office.

The particular details to be included in each register are prescribed in regulation 13 and Schedule 3 to, the Contaminated Land Regulations 2006, and are as follows:

- remediation notices
- site information and details of site reports obtained by the authority relating to remediation notices
- designation of sites as 'special sites'
- site specific guidance issued by the Environment Agency
- remediation declarations, remediation statements and notifications of claimed remediation
- any appeals lodged against remediation and charging notices
- convictions for non compliance with notices
- statement regarding the existence of confidential information

The register will not include details of historic land use and other records used in the investigation of potentially contaminated land.

Before including any information on its register, the enforcing authority needs to consider whether that information should be excluded on the basis that:

- (a) its inclusion would be against the interests of national security; or
(b) the information is commercially confidential.
